Functions of Modal Verbs

Modal Verbs

The modal verbs are: can, could, must, will, would, shall, should, may, might, ought (to), etc. They have the same form in all persons. They come before the subject in questions and take not after them in negations. They take an infinitive without to after them except for ought which is followed by a to infinitive.

Can she play tennis? No, she can't play tennis but she can play golf. He ought to listen to you.

We express ability with:

- can (ability in the present or future)
 Can you swim?
 No, I can't. I can run fast though.
- could / was able to (ability in the past for repeated actions)
 She could / was able to dance for hours when she was young. (repeated action)
- was able to (= managed to) (ability in the past for repeated actions or a single action)
 He was able to win the race. (single action) (NOT He could win the race.)

BUT: I couldn't / wasn't able to find my keys. (single action)

He couldn't / wasn't able to ski when he was young. (repeated action)

Can is the Present Simple form and could is the Past Simple. Can borrows the rest of its tenses from the verb phrase be able to. She hasn't been able to finish it yet.

1. Fill in: can / can't, could / couldn't, was / wasn't able to or have been able to.
